Can this ETF harness the clean energy boom?

The Invesco WilderHill Clean Energy ETF is Up 8% this year. It is likely benefitting from top holding Rivian's share price pop, as its electric vans for Amazon are delivered in Europe. While interest rate hikes have dragged clean energy stocks down, policy moves towards a decarbonized US economy should benefit the fund in the long run.

....

- The fund is facing ongoing interest rate headwinds for clean energy stocks.
- The Inflation Reduction Act could drive future growth for the Invesco WilderHill Clean Energy ETF.
